Classics: an examiner's perspective on the new CE and CASE specifications

Target audience:Classroom Teachers and Middle & Senior Management, Years 4-8

THURSDAY 14TH NOVEMBER 2024

4.30PM TO 6.00PM

INSET Outline

In late 2023, candidates for Common Entrance and Common Academic Scholarship were the first to sit papers based on significantly reworked specifications from ISEB.

This webinar is designed to assist anyone, from classroom practitioners to management, involved in preparing students for these updated exams, whether in Latin, Greek or the brand new offering of Classical Civilisation.

A wide variety of angles will be covered, in addition to the basics of the specifications' altered content: the latest thinking from the exam board; insights into how papers are written and designed; tackling lost learning from lockdown restrictions; guidance for the new and rigorous composition section of the Latin papers, and advice more broadly on promoting excellence in the provision of the Classical subjects. A Q&A session at the end will allow ample opportunity for delegates to seek advice on their own queries as well.

Speaker: Ed Clarke

Ed Clarke heads up Common Entrance and Common Academic Scholarship exams for all three classical subjects at ISEB – as Classics Co-Ordinator and Senior Subject Specialist for Latin – and co-chaired the consultation committee which created the new CE Classics specifications.

He is a tutor, the author of Clarke's Latin and Variatio: A Scholarship Latin Course, and formerly IAPS Classics Adviser, editor of the SATIPS Classics Broadsheet and Head of Classics at both Highfield School and Westminster Cathedral Choir School. He has written for The Spectator, the TES, The Independent, Quinquennium and the Journal of Classics Teaching and has addressed conferences for ISEB, IAPS and Keynote. He consulted for the DfE in launching their Latin Excellence Programme, which seeks to promote the teaching of Latin in state schools, and he campaigns for traditional, knowledge-rich teaching.
