ANCIENT GREEK: AN EXAMINER'S PERSPECTIVE ON THE NEW CE SPECIFICATION AND BEST PRACTICE IN CLASSICS TEACHING

THURSDAY 20TH NOVEMBER 2025

4.30PM TO 6.00PM

Target Audience

Classroom Teachers and Middle & Senior Management, Years 4-8

INSET Outline

The teaching of Ancient Greek at prep school level has always proven a significant challenge, from severe limitations of timetable to the comparative paucity of suitable teaching materials.

In this webinar, Ed Clarke will draw upon his experience as a setter and examiner to discuss the current CE format and specification for Greek, as well as best practice in classroom teaching and tips for approaching particular topics. Attention will also be given to bridging the gap between Level 2 and exams set independently by senior schools, for the benefit of those candidates sitting scholarship.

Delegates are encouraged to interact with the speaker as well as one another throughout the proceedings so as to best share the experiences and insights of everyone present. A formal Q&A session will also take place at the end.

Details

The webinar will take place online, via Zoom. Delegates will be sent a link to the webinar via e-mail beforehand.

Following the Q&A, delegates will also be supplied with copies of the presentation and any accompanying documents, as well as a recording of the webinar.

Speaker: Ed Clarke

Ed Clarke heads up Common Entrance and Common Academic Scholarship exams for all three classical subjects at ISEB – as Classics Co-Ordinator and Senior Subject Specialist for Latin – and co-chaired the consultation committee which created the new CE Classics specifications

He is a tutor, the author of Clarke's Latin and Variatio: A Scholarship Latin Course, and formerly IAPS Classics Adviser, editor of the SATIPS Classics Broadsheet and Head of Classics at both Highfield School and Westminster Cathedral Choir School. He has written for The Spectator, the TES, The Independent, Quinquennium and the Journal of Classics Teaching and has addressed conferences for ISEB, IAPS and Keynote. He consulted for the DfE in launching their Latin Excellence Programme, which seeks to promote the teaching of Latin in state schools, and he campaigns for traditional, knowledge-rich teaching.
